

Interdisciplinary Studies (BA): Self Design Concentration

The Interdisciplinary Studies (IDS) Self-Design B.A. or B.S. options exist to allow undergraduate students to design a major in an area of academic interest that crosses disciplinary boundaries and creates a unique educational experience.

Admission to the Self-Design Major program is by application only. The first step for the student who wishes to enter the program is to identify a faculty sponsor/mentor. This sponsor will assist the student to develop an academically sound major in a chosen interdisciplinary area.

Toward the end of your coursework, you will complete a capstone course requiring you to use skills and knowledge obtained during the degree to design and implement a service-learning experience to benefit an organization in the community. Please see the Self-Design FAQ (<https://ids.chass.ncsu.edu/majors-and-minors/self-design/frequently-asked-questions/>) page (question 7) for a more detailed description.

For more information about this program, visit our website (<https://ids.chass.ncsu.edu/majors-and-minors/self-design/>).

Departmental Requirements

Students design their own academic major by developing a concentration or field of specialization with 27 hours of approved courses from two or more disciplines. No more than 15 credit hours may come from a single discipline. Nine of the 27 hours will provide a foundation in the specialization and at least six hours will be at the 400-level or higher. At least five courses must be from the humanities and social sciences, including courses offered by the College of Humanities & Social Sciences, Economics courses, and courses on the approved General Education Program (GEP) Humanities and Social Sciences lists. At least three of the five courses must be taught in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. All such proposals must be reviewed by a faculty sponsor and approved by the IDS committee. Contact department for more information.
