

World Languages and Cultures (BA): Arabic Studies Concentration

The Arabic Studies concentration provides an interdisciplinary study of a vibrant and critical region of the world. It provides students with an in-depth understanding of the Middle East and North Africa, including the languages, peoples, histories, and cultures of the region. Arabic Studies enhances student employment opportunities in both public and private sectors. It also facilitates the development of skills necessary to work and live successfully in the Middle East. Study Abroad and internship programs in the Middle East are offered to encourage and support student engagement in the region. As part of the major, students are strongly encouraged to participate in a Study Abroad Program in the Middle East; however, this is not required.

All the general requirements for the Bachelor of Arts degree must be met. Degree designation is B.A. in World Languages and Cultures: Arabic Studies Concentration.

Career Opportunities

The expansion of international relations makes the knowledge of world languages a critical need for today's professional. The student of world languages is not limited to teaching, translating or interpreting. There are careers in politics, diplomacy, commerce, business, agriculture, science, and research in which a thorough knowledge of world languages and cultures is crucial for success. The demand for multilingual personnel extends to all fields of human enterprise and will continue to grow in the coming years.

Previous graduates who have taken Arabic language and culture courses at NCSU have gone on to careers with connections to the Middle East and engagement in the region. Arabic has proven a professional advantage for students in myriad fields, including Government and Public Sector careers, Business Administration and Marketing, Politics and Diplomacy, NGOs and NPOs, Media and Communications, Graduate and Professional Studies, Journalism, and Science and Engineering Education.
