Fashion and Textile Design (BS): Fashion Design Concentration

Students in our B.S. in Fashion and Textile Design will choose to concentrate in either fashion or textile design.

In our Fashion Design concentration (https://textiles.ncsu.edu/academics/ undergraduate/fashion-design/), you'll spend hours in the studio learning pattern design and garment construction using our state-of-the-art technology and cutting edge processes. You'll also learn ways to push the industry towards a more sustainable future with design practices that minimize waste.

In your senior year, you'll apply all of your experience to send a full collection down the runway.

Career Opportunities

Do you dream of creating your own fashion brand and becoming the next designer to capture the world's attention? That's certainly possible with our FTD degree, especially considering NC State's reputation for entrepreneurship (https://entrepreneurship.ncsu.edu/news/2021/11/16/ nc-state-ranked-no-1-entrepreneurship-program-in-the-southeast/).

But you don't have to strike out on your own to make your mark as a fashion designer. Our graduates also design for leading brands ranging from The North Face to Belk to Anthropologie.

Other alumni even apply their fashion knowledge to become stylists or magazine editors. With a $3 trillion industry, the opportunities are endless.

Career Titles

- Creative Director: Use trend and market research and creative vision to develop the amount and type of garment that will be designed as well as the aesthetic concepts that will drive that design.
- Assistant/Associate Designer: Develop patterns and sketches for garments that fit within the creative director's vision.
- 3D/CAD Artist: Interpret inspiration and design sketches into computer-aided designs that can be used to help product development team in fit prototyping and maintain digital catalog of brand designs.

- Costume Designer: Design, develop garments for use in television, movie and stage productions.
- Fashion Stylist: Apply the creative process principles of market research to develop looks for their clients that are both on trend and fit within that public figure's personal brand.
